To Whom It May Concern,

It is my pleasure to recommend Mr. Bilaly Sangare, a doctoral candidate in Islamic Economics and Law at Istanbul Sabahattin Zaim University, Turkey. As Head of the Department to which he belongs, I have had the opportunity to follow his academic progress closely.

His doctoral research focuses on the utilization of migrant remittances for sustainable development in Mali, grounded in Islamic economic principles — a subject that combines scholarly depth with genuine practical relevance.

Mr. Sangare has demonstrated throughout his academic career a clear commitment to research and a sound academic standing. He has contributed to peer-reviewed scholarly publications, commands several languages enabling him to engage effectively within international academic and professional communities, and has shown a strong capacity for independent work and constructive participation in diverse research and professional environments.

I therefore recommend Mr. Sangare with full confidence for academic conferences and events, research grants and fellowships, as well as professional opportunities to which he may apply. I am certain he will prove a dedicated and productive contributor in any setting.

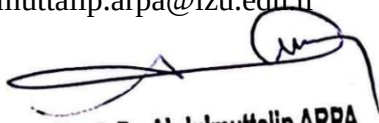

Yours sincerely,

Prof. Dr. Abdulmuttalip Arpa
